Have you ever been to an election hustings before ?

Should Scotland build new nuclear plants ?

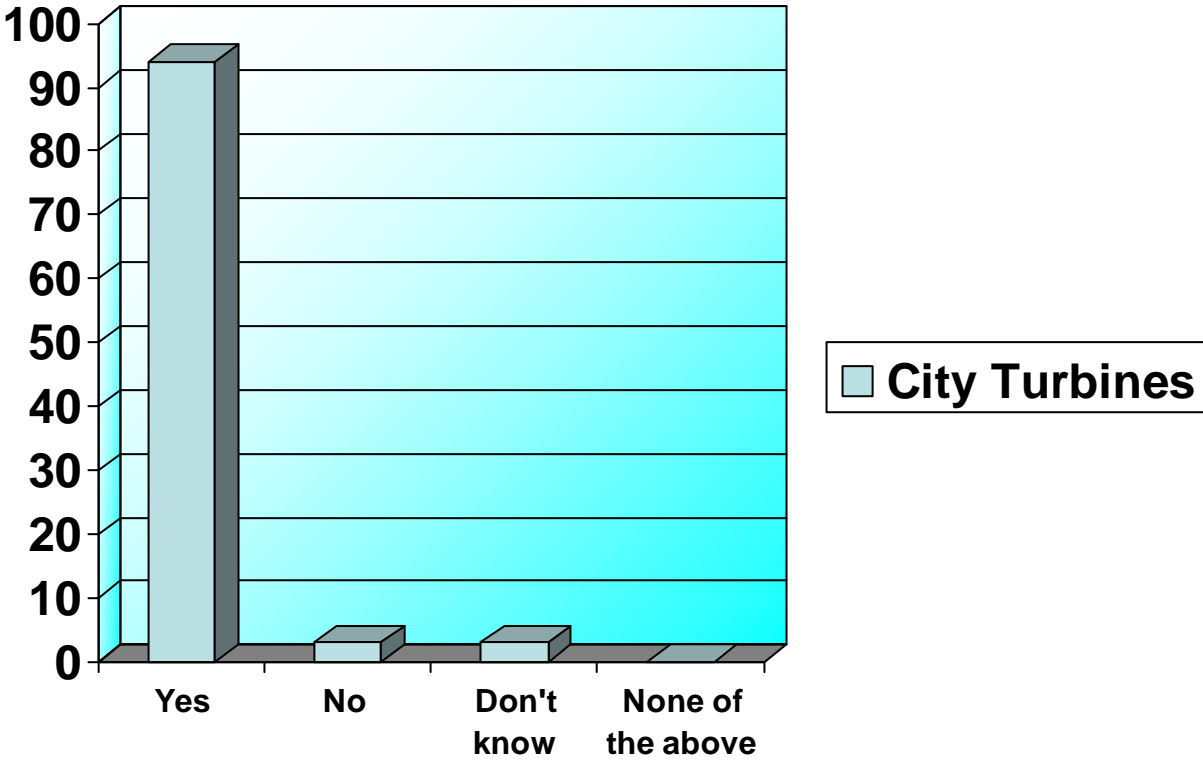

Do the parties accept the need for on shore wind and have the candidates supported it in their local areas ? Do you support onshore wind ?

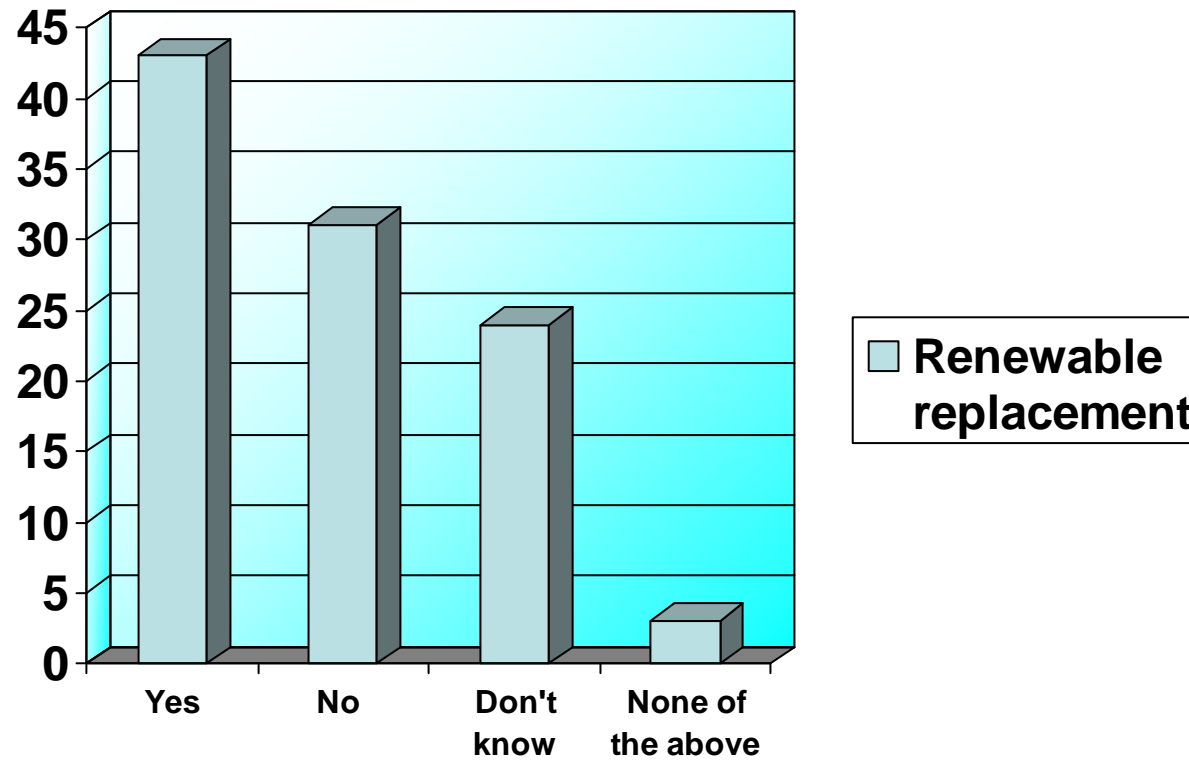

Is tackling climate change of sufficient urgency to increase the number of on shore wind farms even if it is at the perceived detriment of the Scottish landscape ?

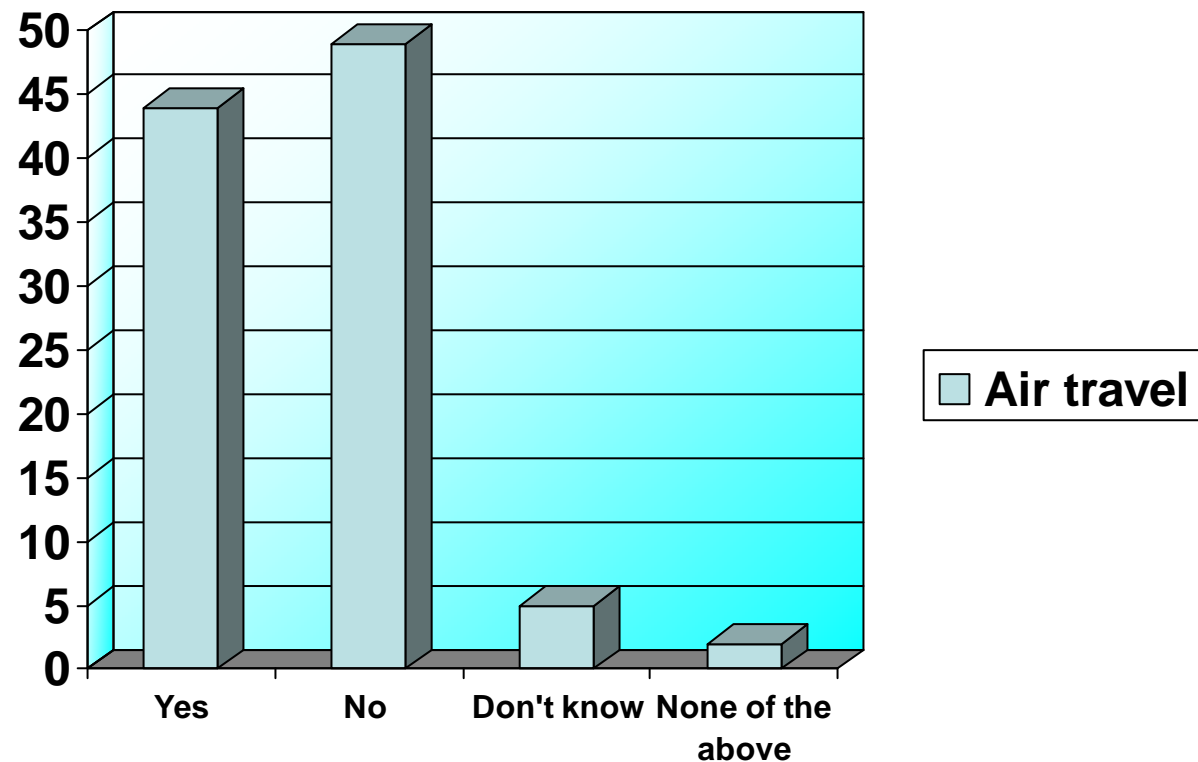

Should more cities consider wind turbines like the ones at Michelin in Dundee ?

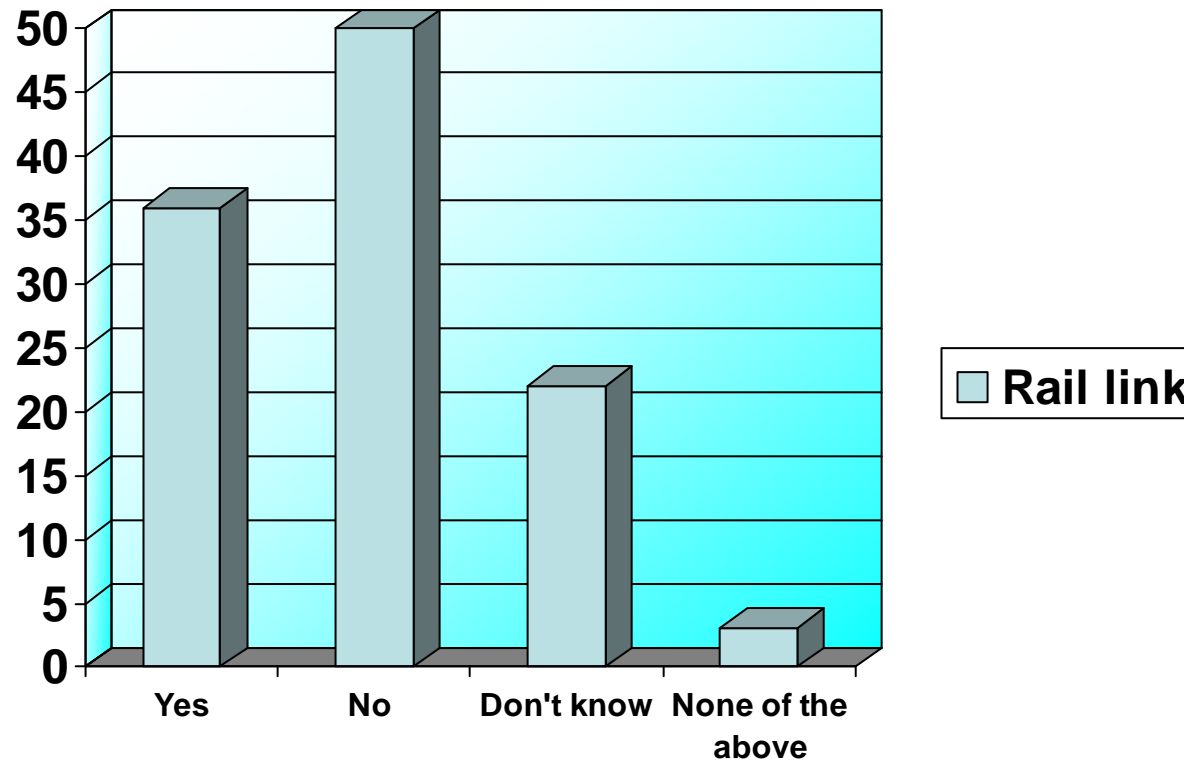

Can wave, tidal and off shore wind replace the energy gap created when fossil fuel and nuclear power stations close ?

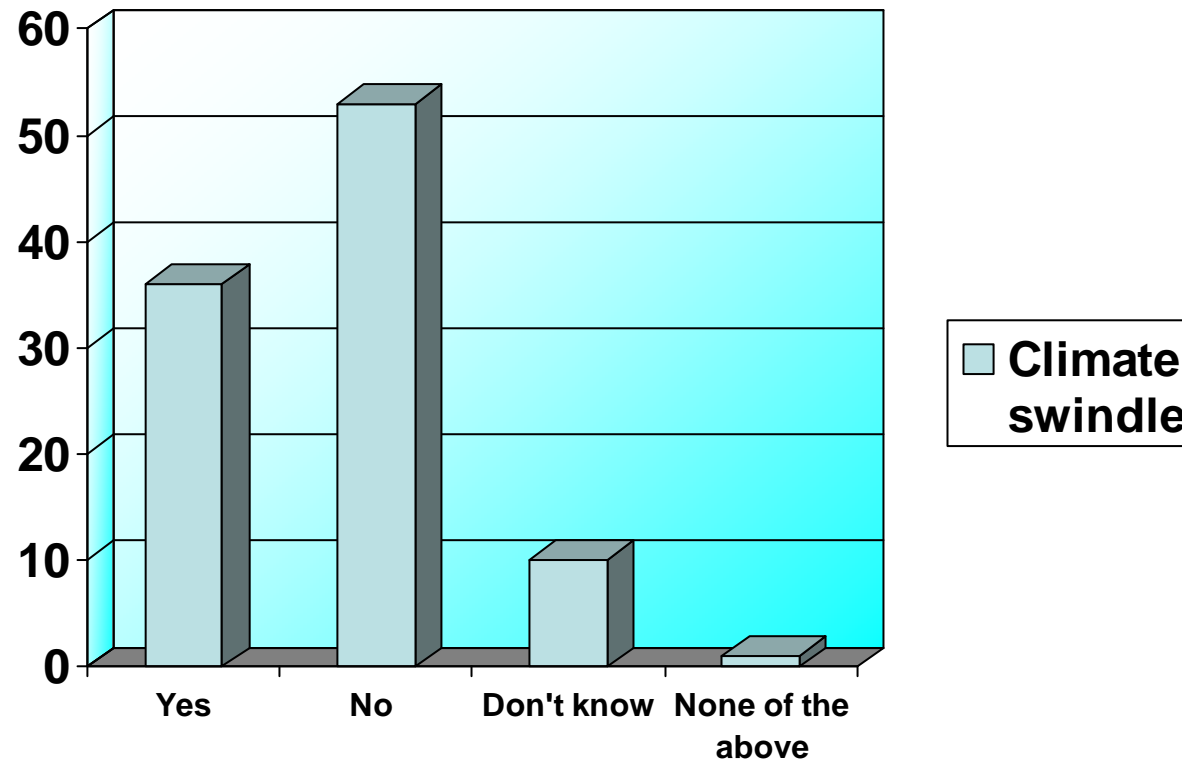

Should people who go aboard on annual holiday every year and take a couple of city breaks with budget airlines be taxed or financially penalised for doing this ?

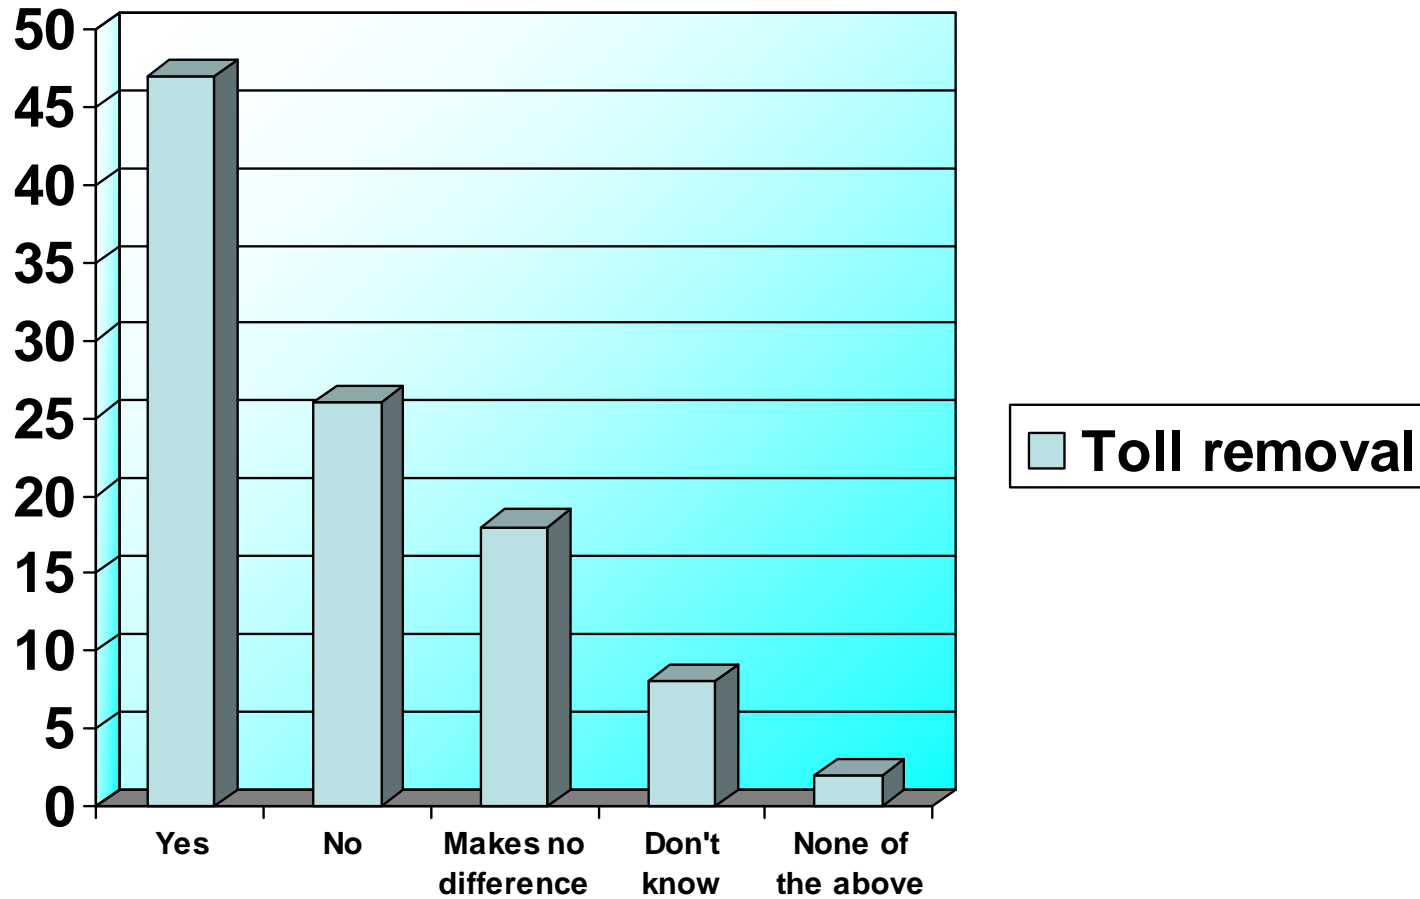

Should Scotland's next big rail project be a new rail link to Edinburgh airport ?

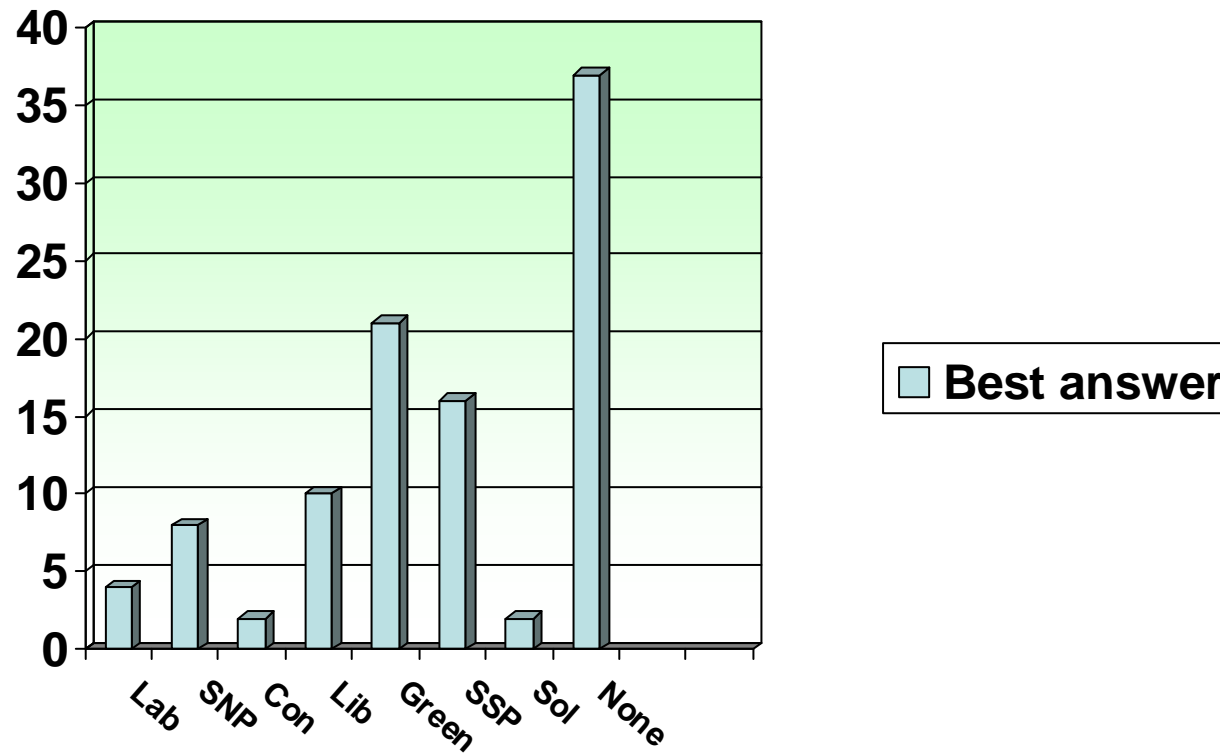

Should we consider the Great Global Warming Swindle argument – that the rise in CO<sub>2</sub> follows climate change and doesn't necessarily cause it ?

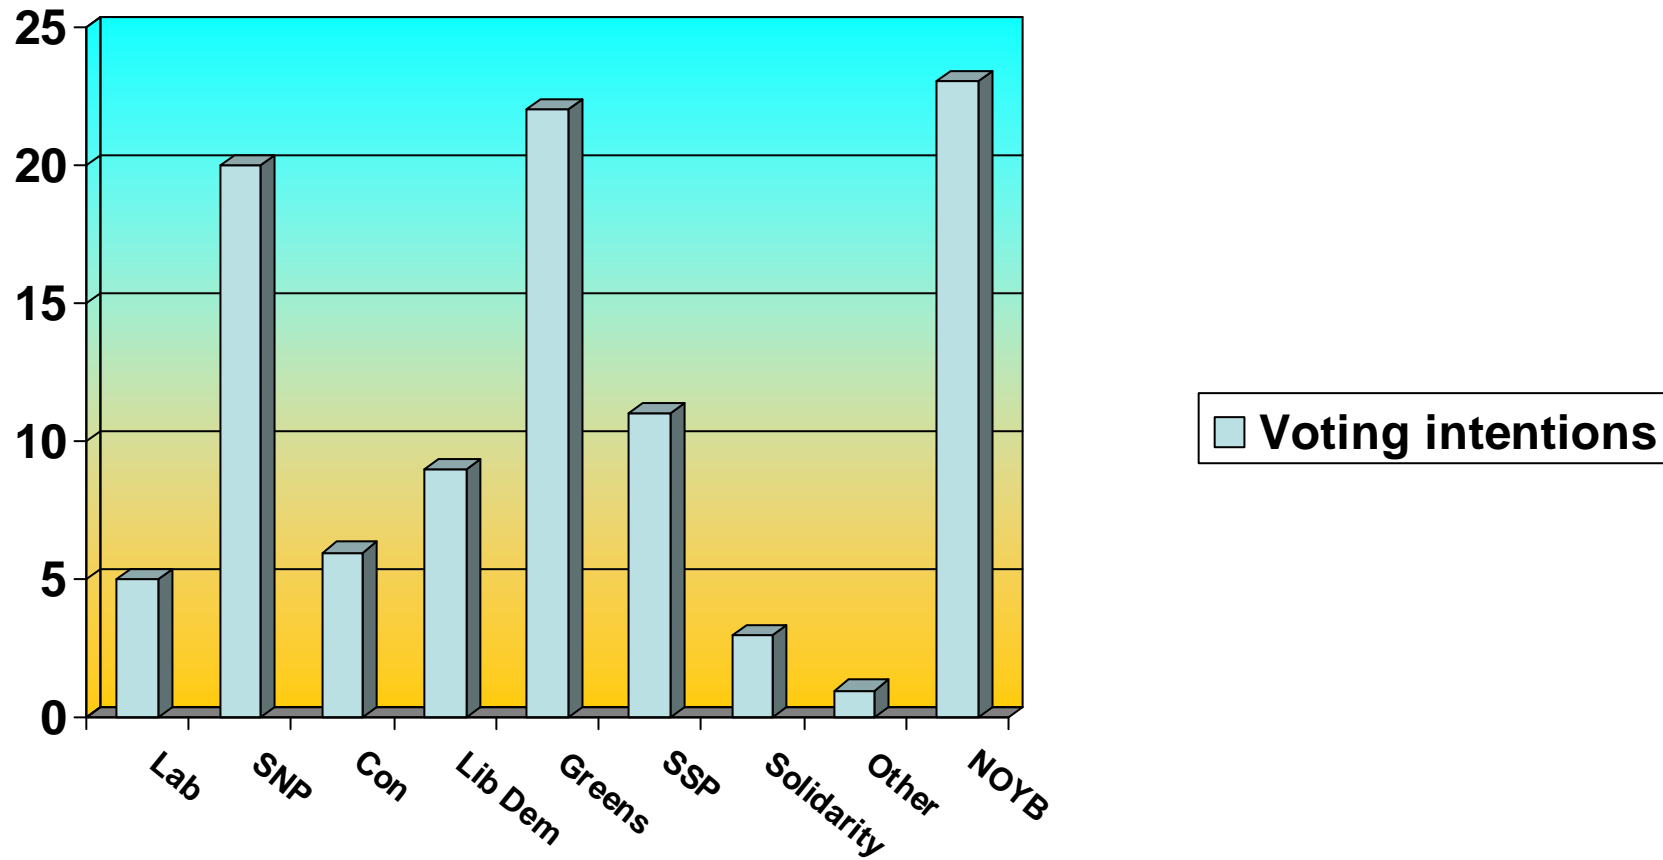

Will removing tolls on the Forth and Tay road bridges reduce congestion and climate change emissions?

How can we stop our existing housing stock from leaking energy and forcing people into fuel poverty to heat their homes ?
Which party best answered this question ?

Based on today's debate how will you be voting in the constituency section of the vote for Holyrood on May 3rd
